To the Courteous Readers, and to the Honest Students in Astrology, &c.

Gentlemen !

I Present you here with another Ephemeris, viz. for Anno 1687 ; and I heartily wish it were without Exception : I hope in one Years time more we may be furnished with Ephemerides more correct. I must confess I find no encouragement to calculate de novo. Yet I doubt not but some Noble Souls will (and as I am inform'd have long since begun to) undertake the Task. In the mean time accept of this, which varies little from the great Lady Verity : otherwise be pleas'd to adhere to Horace's Advice; lib. 1. Epist. ult. ult.

Si quid novisti refertis istis;

Candidus impertis : si non, his utere mecum.

Thus elegantly rendered into English Verse by Alex. Bromley

Farewell :

If thou of any better Rules canst tell

Than these, impart them candidly :

If not, I pray make use of these with me.

Now since at this juncture of time Astrological Predictions, also Monthly Observations, (or rather Conjectures of Mundane Contingencies) are prohibited, to oblige the Candid Reader (if possible) I have this Year supplied those vacant Pages with other useful matter, no less necessary for an Almanack, which (if well consider'd) I hope may be as gratefully accepted as any Book annually presented of this nature—Eae si populus vult decipi, decipiat. I know men in these days are as curious in the choice of Books (amongst which I may include even those of Almanacks) as that of Women ; and others again are such close-fisted Misers, that they had rather have their Purse enrich'd than their Minds. The Divine Urania is by too many only saluted at the Threshold, who never attain the least glimpse of her Arcano's, or Inner Rooms, to admire her. Hence we may conclude, that very few are skill'd in her Mysteries ; and thus she becomes as little regarded as her Clients rewarded—This Critical Phantastick Age is too inquisitive after Novelties. Again, 'tis well observ'd, That some men for a time are much belov'd, more admir'd, and at the same time, excus'd sufficiently by others. Momus will carp, although among the Gods; Hercules amongst the Hero's hunts after Monsters; Pluto amongst the Devils, as King of Hell, is angry with the Ghosts; Democritus amongst the Philosophers derides and laughs at all things: on the other side, Heraclitus, as if his eyes were a Fountain of Tears, is always weeping; Pyrrhus is ignorant of all things, and Aristotle himself believes he knows all things; Diogenes scorns all things. Yet others there are that will not spare any man; and we see some pure nos'd Criticks will too often scent out an Error where in reality there is none. Farther, we may observe, That even the Elements have their Mutations; the Earth it self hath its Motions, and Kingdoms after some Revolutions have their Periods and non plus ultra. Here's nothing more certain than uncertainty.

To the Readers, &c.

But Lastly, 'Tis observable, that in our Age (by help of the Telescope) we have seen the Spots in the Sun, and its conversion about its own Axis; We have seen the Lateral Guardians or Satellires of Saturn and Jupiter, the various Phases of Mars, the Horns of Venus and Mercury, the Mountains and Seas of the Moon; We have seen the Generation of Comets, the Apparition and Disapparition of New Stars; amongst the Planetary Orbs, innumerable Cohorts of Fixed Stars, yea even the small Constellation of the Pleiades, beautified with divers lights, impossible to be numbred; We have seen the Rain-bow like Coulers of divers Lucid Globes, and the Motley Out-sides of the Dog-star and Orion. And after all that can be said, the clearest and most eminent Truths have suffered Martyrdom in the Furnace of Dispute: for Quot homines tot sententiae. And thus I conclude in the words of the Lord Bacon, May we ever be blessed with the inspiration of a Vital Breath and Prolifick Influence of a Thriving Air. Till the next Year Farewell.

Gentlemen!

Baldwins Court in Baldwins Gardens,
Sept. 18. 1696.

I am your humble Servant,

HENRY COLE.

I. Of the Winter Quarter

IT hath been usually observed (as well by Ancient as Modern Astronomers in their several Descriptions of the four Quarters of the Year, or Cardinal Points) to begin the first Quarter thereof at the Sun's Ingress into the first Scruple of Capricorn. Which Custom (amongst the rest) I do also here follow.

Bruma Anni prima est, veterisque novissima Solis;

Principium capiunt Phœbus & Annus idem.

Solstitium Hyemale, or the Winter-Quarter, (according to Astronomical Computation) did begin on Saturday the 11th of December, 1685. at 8<sup>h</sup> 16<sup>m</sup> mane, (being the apparent time) the Sun then making his Ingress into the first Scruple of the Tropical, Meridional and Solstitial Point Capricorn: at which time he hath his greatest Southern Declination from the Equinoctial, viz. 23° 30', causing the shortest Days 7<sup>h</sup> 34<sup>m</sup> and longest Nights 16<sup>h</sup> 20<sup>m</sup> in our Horizon. This Quarter, 'tis well known, continues until the Sun has made his progression through every Degree and Minute of Capricorn, Aquarius and Pisces. Hyems frigidissima & humida est, quod eo tempore natura ad novam humidæ regenerationem tendat, ut de currente Hyeme, vere rursus redire possit ortusque, & interitus hoc modo in circulum aguntur: for it proceeds ex humido tanquam materia (says the Philosopher) sed dum calor potentiam humidæ existendo in altum producit, humidum forma causa permittit sicci. Which can have no consistency unless of a dry Body: for Cold and Moisture helpeth Generation, while it collecteth and bindeth its parts into it self: for no Exhalation can be so thin and pure, but inwardly may be condensed and resolved into a watry nature. And this is also observable in the Age of man, with reference to the four Quarters of the Year; for Old Age prevalente siccitate frigus succedens, is referred to Winter.

Merlinus Junior, 1687.

Above the Horizon the Sun scarce peeps,
 But presently in the Ocean he sleeps
 His Fiery Steeds; There is so long detains him,
 Aurora jealous grows ere that she gains him:
 Through his long absence the wet Element
 Congeals to Ice, the Clouds which Rain down sent Drop Flakes like Wool; so that unto our sight,
 Brooks, Woods, and Fields are all made perfect white,
 Come, gentle Spring, and let thy power be seen,
 And blot out white, and write it all in Green;
 And Titan mount, let not dim Phoebe shine,
 Longer than thou, Lord of the Ecliptick Line.

Here follows a Scheme of the Heavens, set to the time of the Sun's Ingress aforesaid, by the Great Ptolomy's Table of Houses for the Latitude of  $51^{\circ} 30'$  and the rather, because of late some are pleased to extol them above those called Rational, and have been generally received as so, by all modern Students for many Years past. See the five ways of dividing the Heavens in my Clavis Astrologia, and this of Ptolomy's, which I presume agrees to the fourth way there set down according to Campanus and Gazolus. I desire also, Those that have any good Opinion of the famous Regiomontanus, that they would not throw away his Tables of Houses, nor Method of Directions, who was one of the first that ever compleated Tables of Ascension and Position, &c. for that purpose, and which were afterwards seconded by Argol and others; and for the Equation in the measure of time in Directions, Mr. John Kendal has taken great pains to good purpose, in his Chronometria, sold by Mr. Christopher Hussey at the Flower de Luce in Little Britain; to which Book I refer the expert Students in the Calculation of Nativities, at this time more than ordinary controverted. Artibus ingenius quaesita est gloria multis.

I shall not presume from the following Scheme to launch out into a large Judgment Astrological, and thence deduce daring and bold Predictions, which may perhaps give offence; but modestly give you the natural signification of the

the Planets in each House: which may be information acceptable to some persons, and prejudicial I hope to none.

1. And first of Saturn in the ninth House well dignified (as he is in this Scheme) shews men shall be temperate, and indeavour to live in peace one with another. This must be understood in general terms; Many will take up, and live more soberly than formerly; others shall make many Voyages or long Journeys to good purpose; hence the Merchants may expect hopeful Returns to their great satisfaction.

2. Jove in the 12th strong and potent (as in this Scheme) shews, That the people shall gain by their Enemies; and the rather in regard he is in friendly Sextile to Saturn Ruler of the Ascendant and second House. The Ancients say, they will also love and cherish one another; and 'tis my opinion, that many that have lived in enmity heretofore shall now become friends, and endeavour to be very serviceable one to another. Thus we have frequently seen, that

*Men without love have oft so cunning grown;
That something like it they have shown,
But none who had it ever seem'd t' have none.*

3. Mars strong and potent (as in this Figure) in the Tenth House, declares Acts of Justice from Superiors to their Inferiors, as also from Masters to their Servants, though perhaps with some sort of severity and no less subtilty, of which let those concerned look to it, and deport themselves as in Duty obliged, &c.

4. Sol upon the very Ascendant free from affliction, denotes a happy and prosperous Quarter in general, and that the people should be willing to live quietly one with another, and not only so, but they should be prosperous and successful from the highest degree to the lowest, and delight in Generous Noble Actions, Quoad capax.

5. The Planet Venus posited in the 12th House, and there in Square to the Moon in the Ecliptick, doth in some kind portend prejudice and misfortune to the better sort of the Female Sex, especially in their Love-concerns; as also slights, affronts and other unwelcome disasters too frequently from their supposed best Friends. So that they may have just cause to complain with the Poet—

*With much of pain, and all the Art I knew,
Have I endeavour'd hitherto
To hide my love, and yet all will not do.*

6. Mercury in the Ascendant shews a prosperous time during this Quarter to the younger sort of men; who should now be industrious and fortunate in their honest Attempts and Endeavours, using much ingenuity and study to attain to knowledge; and hence Clerks in general, and also such whose Employment or business is Pen-work, may expect pleasing advantage and encouragement; for the Seeds and Sparks of Vertue that lye buried in our Souls, unless actuated and enliven'd by study and industry, will certainly ty wither and vanish to nothing; but if manur'd by labour, they will daily sprout and shoot up into maturity. And who knows not that every man of his own Nature and Genius is prone, and hath a propensity to this or that?

7. The Moon in the Second moderately well placed (as in our Scheme) plainly shews in Starry Dialect, That the vulgar sort or common people should thrive by their pains and industry, and consequently enjoy plenty of most things, could they be content; nor need they fear any loss or detriment considerable, though we know the best things are besieged with the greatest difficulties too often; as not Riches, so neither do Vertues pop upon the slothful; they are silly Wasps of Mankind, who from every Company suck in poyson.

8. Caput or the Dragon's Head in the Fifth House, shews much joy and pleasure in or concerning Children; as also that the people will frequently meet and enjoy themselves with the content and satisfaction of Feasting and plentiful enjoyment (this cold Season) of the Creature. But 'tis very convenient to think of a Storm in the midst of a Calm.

9. Cauda or the Dragon's Tail in the 11th, portends too much treachery and falsity in some who make the greatest pretensions of friendship to their Dependants; or at least very unkind acts amongst pretended friends, of backbiting, secret undermining, and other unkind dealing; which some by experience will too soon know to their sorrow. All I shall say in the business farther is this, (which every Body will owne) That 'tis scarce so pleasant to find a friend, as 'tis miserable to be deceived by him. Caveto.

II. Of the Spring.

Æ Quinotium Vernale, or the Spring-Quarter, begins this present Year March the 10th, 10<sup>h</sup> 5' mane, being the apparent time, and at which moment Sol enters the Oriental and Aequinoctial Sign Aries, and has

has now no Declination, &c. but rises and sets at 6, making the Days and Nights of an equal length. This Quarter continues till the Sun passes through the Signs Aries, Taurus and Gemini. And 'tis said, Vir humidissimum esse & nonnihil calidum propterea, quod Sole remotissimo suo à Vertice nostro discessu, ad nos per obliquum Circulum Radiens, omnem illam humiditatem qua Hyemis frigore erat constricta resolvat, caloremque quendam excitare incipiat. Notwithstanding it is to be understood that the Substance and Moisture which doth abound in the Spring, is not of such a crude or Indigested Quality, as that which is incident to the Winter; and therefore is more inclinable and apt for Generation than Putrefaction, by reason of the constant Motion and Elaboration of the Sun, which causeth a quickening and vivifying heat by the influence of his Beams.

*Vere novo nitido reparata colore resurgit
Terra: revivens iubar nacta Solis.*

*Apollo now rides equally between
The Worlds two Poles, and is a long time seen within our Hemisphere, e're that he leaves us,
As in the other half World which is beneath us:
And mounting higher, doth again revive
Things sensible, as well as Vegetive.
Man cheerfully trips over the enamell'd Fields,
Which many sweet delights unto him yields:
There grow all Flowers to the eye or scent,
The which (almost) might give the Soul content:
Sweet Harmony to please the dainty Ear,
Melodious Birds are chanting every where;
So shrill proceeds the Musick from their Throats,
Rocks ring the Echo's of their well-tun'd Notes.*

As in the Winter-Quarter, so in this Spring-Quarter, I shall prosecute the same innocent Judgment of the seven Planets in the Houses of the Scheme, and the same Method I shall use in the other Quarters of the Year also; which which Deductions from each Scheme I intend as harmless as pleasant, and if kindly received 'twill animate me to study for something which may gratifie the publick for their favourable acceptation hereof, &c.

*Let Fortune favour Poor men most of all,
Those hope to rise, 'tis Rich men fear to fall.*

1. The Planet Saturn posited in the 5th House strong and potent : This shews a pleasant Spring Quarter, even amongst the more elderly sort of people. Now they visit their Children, and perhaps their Childrens Children ; they rejoyce together and are merry, and so pass over all thoughts of sadness, or whatsoever dangers others apprehend approaching: methinks I hear them say in the words of the Epicure,

Let's

Merlinus Junior, 1687.

Let's banish business, banish sorrow;
To the Gods belong To morrow.

2. Jove very powerful in the 6th House promises a healthful Season both to Man and Beast in general. But being there in Opposition to the Moon, seems to threaten Sicknes to the Female Sex and the younger sort, viz. Children, with Feavers, Small Pox, and such Diseases, arising from putrefaction of Bloud, though not dangerous or violent, some Sicknes we must always expect amongst us, and 'tis well 'tis no worse. Servants now will many of them expect Promotion, and certainly many Under-Officers who have long expected the same will now (if they look about them) attain their desire. Felix qui potuit contentus vivere parvo.

3. Mars in the 7th, 'tis true, has Dignities therein; but he produces too many Curtain-Lectures there: also contentions between man and man, and consequently Quarrels, Duels, Law-Suits, and such like mischiefs: and this is not all, here's Robbing, Murders and Cheats, &c. daily heard of: Let the chief Actors look to it; and sometimes a Blow with a Word strikes deeper than a Blow with a Sword. Dies dolorem minuit.

4. The Position of Royal Sol upon the Cusp of the 11th House, shews a right understanding between Rulers or Commanders, and those persons that are under them: They now please themselves in their hopes of future advantage, and do no less delight themselves (I mean) one Friend with another. It shews also a quiet and willing submission and conformity of the people in general to those in Power and Authority over them, generally throughout the whole Kingdom, at least during this Quarter.

5. Venus in the 11th House doth very much confirm the aforesaid Judgment, who also shews abundance of delight and satisfaction amongst Friends, especially those of the Female Sex; they should now more than ordinary bestir themselves, as to Feastings, making up Marches, and promoting Love-Intrigues to purpose— and this in all probability with great success, to their profit and satisfaction—

And

And Matrimony is said to be the fastning of Hymen's Noose—

6. Mercury in the Angle of Honour or Tenth House promises Promotion to Secretaries, Clerks and Merchants; Men of Learning and Ingenuity should be much honoured by their Prince. But in regard Mercury is not essentially strong, many therefore may fall short of their expectation, however let not endeavours be wanting, &c —

*Who can, though Honour at his Gate should stay
In all her Masking Cloaths, send her away,
And cry, Be-gone, I have no mind to play?*

7. The Moon in the 12th shews much sorrow and perplexity to some sort of the common people, who think themselves wiser than their Neighbours; they should be careful to keep within Bounds, and let their Superiors alone— 'tis dangerous to wake a sleepy Lyon— Many bring Imprisonment, and all the sorrows attending restraint upon themselves— 'tis better sleeping in a whole Skin— let such learn to be wiser— verbum sapientibus—
Cynthia Aurum vellit.

8. Caput in the 12th doth in effect speak the same things; and therefore let every person be careful to avoid such dangers, which is all I need say, but remember this old Adage, Qui ante non cavet, post dolebit.

9. Lastly, Cauda in the 6th, gives some people great caution of entertaining the meaner sort of Servants into their Families this Quarter; for such should prove for the most part very thievish and dangerous, as opportunity may permit.

III. Of Summer.

Solstitium Aestivum*, or the Summer Quarter, beginneth this Year the 11th of June, at 11<sup>h</sup> 15<sup>m</sup> manē; at which time the Sun maketh his Ingress into the first Scruple of the Septentrional and Tropical Sign Cancer, having then his greatest Northern Declination from the Aequinoctial, making with us the longest Day. 16 hours 36 min. and shortest

Shortest Nights 7 hours 34 min. This Quarter continues till the Sun has passed through Cancer, Leo, Virgo. Aestas calidissima est & sicca, quod calor eo tempore intendatur, omnemque humiditatem dissolvendo absumat : which produceth Grain, Fruit, Herbs, Plants, Flowers, & res ex terra nascentes ad justam tendant magnitudinem.

*Phoebe quid à Tepidi properas in Brachia Cancrì ?
Astruat indomito terra calore tua.*

What hideous noise ring in the Firmament ?
See with what violence the Clouds are rent ;
What thing oppresseth Nature thus I wonder,
That Heavens crack as they would split asunder ;
The Clouds dissolve in Tears to bear the sound,
The Fire runs flashing all along the ground ;
The World's fixt Center shakes, and men do fear,
Lest all to nothing turn, as first they were :
But see ! all's hush'd, with mild Aspect the Sky
Unmasks her Cloudy Front immediately,
And comforts us that were but now half dead,
And thought the Grave would next have been our Bed.

1. Saturn so potent in the Ascendant of the following Figure, also in Trine to Mercury, and Sextile of Venus, signifies a healthful Summer for the most part. The people will now live in peace under their Superiors, and thereby free themselves of many troubles. They should go on cheerfully and pleasantly in their business and Employments, and doubtless be very successful therein. Here will now be no repining for want of Trade, nor will they so much torment themselves with cares, fears and troubles of the World, as formerly——

2. Jove must be considered here as virtually in the 4th House, very strong and potent. Authors tell us, that such a Position shews, That men shall infinitely abound in Wealth, and prosper by their endeavours, and especially such as deal in Husbandry and Tillage. If so, then here's excellent News and great encouragement for the Country Farmer, that he may expect advantageous Crops, and all things things to succeed well to his content, in all or most of his affairs.

3. Mars in the 5th. House, and in Trine to Mercury, speaks better things than what is usually reported of him, as many Abortive Births, hard Labour, and the Death of Children, &c. This Quarter 'twill be found otherwise; for Mercury is very potent, and rules the two principal Angles of the Scheme; he also beholds Mars by a friendly Ray, and therefore very much meliorates or mirigates his harsh and rugged influence—

4. The Sun in the 10th House is also of most excellent signification, as to our Rulers and Governours: much Glory and Renown to them, and the happy, safe and prosperous condition of all Loyal Subjects in general is hereby portended.

5. Venus

5. Venus in the 11th House in Sextile to Saturn doth very much confirm the aforesaid Judgment; which is no way forced, but arises purely natural from the Scheme it self, according to the genuine Rules of Astrology. This Quarter then the people will enjoy themselves happily with honest innocent mirth, one amongst another, with much love and amity; than which more cannot reasonably be expected—— Let them go on and prosper—— But for such resolute persons, that had rather be undone than governed, let them take their Fate.

6. Mercury, so potent in the 9th House, promises good success to the industrious Merchants. Now this Quarter they may expect welcome, and no less happy Returns from Foreign Parts. And now also people travel safe and pleasantly, and do more than ordinary delight in the mutual Society one of another. Others are very studious, and thereby find out curious Mysteries, or rather hidden Secrets. In fine, the most ingenious sort are now strangely pregnant, and the generality go on in their Affairs most happily.

7. The Moon weak in the Second House, being in Scorpio and in Square to Mars and Venus, shews Loss by Play or other Recreations, very considerable to some persons that launch out too liberally that way: And this Loss must prove Gain to others. And thus Wealth, though it be bandied about from one to another, it yet remains in the Kingdom still; and he that unhappily lost in his adventures this Quarter, may be so lucky as to retrieve it in the next; for Fortunes Wheel is continually turning to and from one or other. But remember, That

*According to the Wealth you do possess,
So also is your Credit more or less.*

8. Caput in the 9th confirms all that was said of Mercury therein, as to Merchandizing to Sea and long Journeys; and Cauda in the Third shews as much danger in short Inland Journeys; for Foot-Pads and such like Gamesters, will act their Parts very dexterously near the City where they can meet with convenient opportunity.—

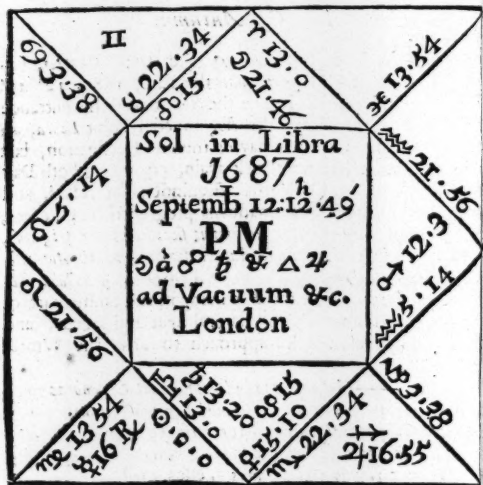

IV. Of Autumn.

Æ Quinotium Autumnale, or the Harvest Quarter, begins this Year September the 12th, 1687. 12<sup>h</sup> 49<sup>i</sup> P. M. at which time the Sun maketh his entrance into the first Scruple of the Æquinoctial Point Libra, an Occidental Sign; the Sun having then no Declination, but rises and sets at 6 of the Clock again, equalizing both Day and Night, as in the Vernal Æquinoctial aforesaid, and continues till the Sun has made his progress through Libra, Scorpio and Sagittary. Autumnus siccissimus & frigidus, quod omnis humiditas in Æstate absumpta, nihil Autumnus relinquat, & calor ipse, discedente à vertice nostro Sole, subinde remittatur. For the Sun being in the South part of the Equator is abated of his natural heat and vigour, and the more by reason of his approach towards the Winter Tropick.

—*Libraeque gradu latem aequat & umbras
In Medio cæli & Mundi Regione locatus.*

No Subcelestial things have permanence,
All things decay compos'd of Elements:
How curiously of late was Tellus crest
With various colours by sweet Flora dress;
As Roses, Lilies, Gilliflowers and Daisies;
With Honey-Suckles, and with yellow Craisses;
With Millions more which I cannot repeat,
Such as by no means Art can counterfeit.
But all those Dresses, wrought by Nature's hand,
Are now cut off, and may no longer stand;
The ample Fields are of their Grain bereft;
On Trees no Fruit, nor yet no Leaves are left;
Meadows are robb'd of what delights them most,
Narcissus Soul, and Hyacinthus Ghost;
The Earth doth grieve because she must intomb
The Seeds she bare again within her womb.

Merlinus Junior, 1687.

1. Saturn here strong in the 4th House, or North Angle, shews much diligence, and no less labour and toil in the Country-man, in the manuring, cultivating and well husbanding his Ground. But being there in Opposition to the Moon, all things may not answer his expectation: yet more Honey than Gall in all probability should succeed to encourage his pains and industry.——

2. Jove in the 5th, so powerful and strong, tells us That most men, but in particular those of the most serious sort, should now more than ordinary delight in Feasting and recreating themselves with Gaming, Sports and Pastimes, with abundance of Friendship, and frequent Kindness constantly heaped upon each other, even to admiration—— I say better so than worse—— But this is not all all; for it portends many easie and happy Deliveries in Childbirth; also it impregnates those that perhaps never before conceived: and this will be no small cause of rejoycing, probably beyond expectation. Others, that delight much in Play, and perhaps have lost much thereby, may now upon select times be so happy, as in a great measure to repair themselves again. Yet I am no Encourager to high Adventures in such matters—

3. Mars is unhappily placed in the 7th House; and notwithstanding all the aforesaid friendship, yet others of a more rugged Nature in many places of this Kingdom, and farther remote, will be troublesome to themselves and others, and in heat of passion many Quarrels and contentions, producing tedious and chargeable Law-Suits and other Transactions of ill tendency, as I have noted upon his Position in the 7th in the Suns Ingress into Aries this Year.

4. The Sun in the Third House doth much alleviate the aforesaid evil, and shews there will be much friendship amongst some sort of Relations and Neighbours; whence endeavours will be used to mitigate such kind of enormities as before expressed— Blessed are the Peace-makers—

5. Mercury in the Third House produces the same Effects; so that by the prevalency of the Sun and Mercury, I mean their forcible influence, the malignancy of angry Mars will be very much abated. Hence we have grounds to hope well, that we shall live in peace and much tranquillity to the end of the Year, and we may justly hope for many Years after.

6. The Planet Venus, with cauda in the 4th House, I like not: It threatens an encrease of Jealousie between Men and their Wives; whence separation, and other unkind accidents should occur. This makes work for the Civilians, and perhaps even this very Quarter may at least lay the foundation to some cross Tryals in the Spiritual Court, &c.

7. The Moon in the Angle of Honour, and now separated from Saturn's Opposition, promises great things to the people in general, viz. a good Trade, and many considerable Advantages to the middle sort of both Sex ; some will be advanced to preferment, others well gratified for some honourable Attempts, besides several honourable Marriages this Quarter, and pleasing News in general to the Commonalty, not usual. This Judgment is confirmed by the Accidental Position of Caput in the 10th. Let the curious be pleased to observe the event of these innocent plain Conjectures ; and if they approve or encourage them, 'twill animate me to proceed farther in this Method, not only to please the inquisitive, but to inform and instruct Tyro's in this kind of Speculation, which I hope no person can in the least be offended withal. Habent sua sata Libelli.

V. Of the Eclipses of this present Year.

TWice this Year the Sun will suffer an Eclipse ; but to us only the first will be visible ; which falls upon the first Day of May, about three Quarters past Noon, near the Stars of the Pleiades. This may be seen if the Air be clear. The middle time of the true Conjunction at London will be May the first

So Boreas breaths from forth the Frozen Zone,
That Rivers turn to Crystal Rocks like Stone :
The Bald-pate Woods are Perwigg'd with the Wool
That Nature from Congealed Clouds doth pull.

Cephalus by Aurora now is slighted,
And in my Beauty she is most delighted :
She Blushing courts me, knows me wondrous fair,
Unparallel'd perfection's only Heir.

No way Inferiour to the Flowers of Mary,
Are the Dew-dropping Roses I display
With other Flowers, exquisitely Rare,
Whose Odoriferous 'icent perfumes the Air.

The Rare Aspect of all the Fragrant Flowers
 That Cloath the Fields and grace the stately Bowers,
 Now 'gins to fade as Nature hath decreed,
 And Leo's fervent heat makes ripe their Seed.

August hath xxxii days.

Oh Autumn! thou hast pull'd me on my Knee,
My Groves, my Fields, and Meadows barren be:
To wish you plenty is all I am able,
So wretched am I, and so miserable.

The Rivers swell now in the hollow Flanks
Of winding Currents, whose proud surly Banks
Did keep them captive all the Summer time,
But now in Rage over the Banks they climb.

He shall have a many Hundred years,
Worn Milk-white Robes, and Locks of Silver Hairs:
I shall have brought the Ancient year to Gravie,
And laid him in, another out to have.

Of the Heights of some Pyramids, Steeples, Obelisks, Pillars, in English Feet.

Take this true Account as I had it from Jonas Moor Knight, late Surveyor General of his Majesty's Ordnance

When St. Paul's Steeple had its Spire on, the Stone Work was 260 Feet high, and the Spire as much which was 520 in all, and will be found as high as any Steeple in Christendom, excepting that at Cremona in Italy, which is 528 Feet. The Ball on St. Peter's at Rome is 466 Feet. The Steeple at Roan in Normandy is 399 Feet; at Strasbourg in Germany 431, at Landhoven in Bavaria 451, at Modena in Italy 279 Feet. The Tower Afinel in Bononia in Italy 316 Feet. The Lantern at Genova 324 Feet, the highest of the Pyramids 1350 Feet; the lower Pyramid 883. The Stone Steeple in England, a Stone Steeple without Spire, 264 Feet high. The height of the Obelisk in Rome, removed by Fontano to S. Peter's, was of one Stone 78 Feet and an half high, 9 Feet 2 Inches square at the greater end and 6 Feet 2 Inches square at the Top; it stands now upon a Pedestal 12 Feet and an half high, and the height of the Brazen Gilded Cross is 19 Feet and an half: so now the whole height is 110 Feet in all. To which may be added the height of the Monument in London, as a Memorandum of the most dreadful Fire which happened therein, 1666. The Base thereof is 27 Feet square, and the Pillar is carried 202 Feet high.

Note, That in the Column in each Month of High Water at London Bridge you have the true time of High Water next after the Moons Southing, that is, once in 24 hours. For the 12 hour Tides, take the just half thus, e. gr. Suppose the 10th of January: The 9th Day, I find 8<sup>h</sup> 20<sup>m</sup> on 10th day, 9<sup>h</sup> 8<sup>m</sup> P. M. the Difference is 48<sup>m</sup>, the Half which added to 8<sup>h</sup> 20<sup>m</sup>, the Sun is 8<sup>h</sup> 44<sup>m</sup> in the Morning (the other being in the after noon) So that the 10th of January, 'tis high Tide at 8<sup>h</sup> 44<sup>m</sup> in the Morning, and at 9<sup>h</sup> 8<sup>m</sup> 'tis also High Water at Night, or Afternoon, & sic in aliis.

- 1641 The Prince of Orange married the Lady Mary, the King's eldest Daughter, with great Solemnity at White-Hall, on Sunday, May 2.
- 1642 The same Year, Octob. 23. the Rebellion in Ireland broke forth in a most bloody manner—

The

Micro-Chronicon.

Civil.

The King returns from Scotland Novemb. 25. and the first of January following, Proclamation was made against the Irish Rebels, and the King proposeth that 10000 Volunteers may be sent over for the relief of the Protestants there. Jan. 3. Articles were exhibited against the Five Members.

1642 April 23. Sir John Hotham denies the King Entrance into Hull; for which he is proclaim'd a Traitor.

May 20. A false and malicious Vote passeth the House, That the King intended to levy War against the Parliament.

July 10. following, the Two Houses Vote the Earl of Essex to be General of their Forces; and Aug. 3. they impiously declare themselves necessitated to take up Arms.

August 22. The King sets up his Standard-Royal at Nottingham, and by Proclamation requires Aid and Assistance of all his Subjects on the North-side of Trent, and within twenty Miles on the South-side, for his just Defence and Preservation. The Earl of Lyndsey is chosen General for the King; the Earl of Essex General for the Rebels. Appointed a Rendezvous of all their Forces at Northampton, being about 20000 Horse and Foot.

The 23th of October (the same Year) was fought that Signal Battel between the King and Rebel-Parliament, on a Plain called the Vale of Red-horse, lying at the very Foot of Edge-hill, near Keynton in Warwickshire: In which Fight perished many worthy men and amongst the rest the valiant Earl of Lyndsey, General of the King's Army: and on the other side, the Lord St. John, a very forward man for the Parliament. The Fight was bloody and dubious, both sides having Trophies of Victory. There were slain in this Battel 3000 Men.

November the 15th and 19th after was a sharp Fight at Brainford, seven Miles from London, wherein many of the Parliament-side were slain.

1643 Jan. 21. Belvoir Castle seiz'd on for the King, and Leeds in York-shire storm'd, and taken by the Rebels.

March 2. Litchfield taken by the Lord Brook's Forces, who was shot in the eye, and died; and the Earl of
Chesterfield then taken.

March 18. The Battel on Hopton-Heath, and the Earl of Northampton slain.

March 25. Scarborough delivered up to his Majesty;
and April 3. Prince Rupert took the Town of Birmingham, where the Earl of Denbigh received his Deaths Wound.

May 3. Cheapside-Cross demolished, and an Assembly of Divines called, &c.

June 5. Taunton and Bridgwater yielded to the Rebels.
This Year were several Fights and Skirmishes between both Armies; wherein the Parliament for the most part went down the wind: only Glocester stood out nigh a Months space, straightly besieged and furiously assaulted, yet unconquered.

July 13. Sir William Waller Routed on *Round-wa-
Down*, by the King's Forces.

July 24. Burleigh House stormed by Cromwell.

Aug. 28. Beverly taken by the Earl of New-Castle.

Septemb. 20. was the Famous Battel of Newberry, which continued till almost Night; wherein were many slain, with many Persons of Quality, as the Earl of Carnarvan, the Earl of Sunderland, and the Lord
Viscount Falkland, &c.

1644 July 2. was that Terrible Battel on Marston Moor, fought between his Highness Prince Rupert and the Earl of New-Castle on his Majesty's side, and the Earl of Manchester, Lord Fairfax and the Scotch General on the other; which was sharply disputed on both sides, till at length the Victory was to the Rebels. There were slain in the Fight above 7000 and all the Great Guns, Carriages, Bag and Baggage, with above an hundred Ensigns, were in the Conquerour's hands.

July 23. York delivered to the Parliament.

Decemb. 23. The Rebels at Westminster vote Sir Thomas Fairfax General of their Forces, and to have 10000<sup>l</sup>. per annum out of Delinquents Estates.

1645 Jan. 1. Captain Hotham, and the second Day Sir John Hotham the Father, Beheaded on Tower-hill.

Jan. 10. The Bishop of Canterbury Beheaded on Tower-Hill, and not long after a Treaty of Peace at Uxbridge, but no Agreement.

May 30. Leicester after very hot dispute taken by the King's Forces.

June 14. The Parliament General advanc'd towards the King's Army, and comes to Naseby in Northamptonshire; and his Majesty's Army at the same time coming from Leicester, by the way of Haverborough, they gave Battel to the Rebels upon Broad Moor in Naseby Field. This was called the Fatal Battel of Naseby, &c. of which take this brief Account: His Majesty himself commanded the main Body, the Right Wing was commanded by Prince Rupert and Maurice, the Left by Sir Marmaduke Langdale. Sir Thomas Fairfax commanded the Main Body of the Rebels, Cromwell the Right Wing, and Ireton the Left. Prince Rupert falls upon their Left Wing, routs them, and pursues them through Naseby Town. In the mean time Fairfax falls on the King's Main Body, and Ironsides Cromwell charging furiously on the Left Wing of the King's Army, brake the King's Army all in pieces. Yet there was great Rallying on both sides, and many sharp Contests, till at length the Victory turned wholly to the Parliament. The King's Horse retreating disorderly towards Leicester, were pursued by Cromwell, and a great many of them taken. The Foot-Souldiers deuring Quarter for their lives (having first thrown down their Armes) were to the number of near 5000 brought Prisoners to London. The King's Standard was taken, with an hundred Colours; The King's Coach and his Cabinet of Letters; All the Bag and Baggage, two hundred Waggon, three thousand Horse, many Officers of Note, great store of Gold and Silver. And although the Victory was so great, yet 'tis thought there was not above seven hundred slain on both sides. This was the last set Battel that ever the King fought, and might well be called The Fatal Battel of Naseby.

1646 His Royal Majesty most graciously the second time offered to come to the Two Houses, and advise with them for the good and safety of the Kingdom; as also upon some Conditions to pass an Act of Oblivion and Free Pardon: which was refused by the Parliament, who had great advantage of the King at this time. He is then forced to cast himself upon the Scotch Army at Southwell, who bring his Majesty to New-Castle, and there most treacherously sell him to the Parliament for four hundred thousand Pounds, and resign him up, and so march over the River Tweed, &c. having first sold their King.

1647 Feb. 17. His Majesty was brought Prisoner to Holmby in Northamptonshire.

1648 Jan. 30. The Parliament vote, That no further Address be made to the King.

April 22. His Royal Highness the (then) Duke of York made his escape from St. James's.

August 28. Colchester (having held out long, and almost famished) was surrendered, where Sir Charles Lucas and Sir George Lisle were in cold blood shot to death. Since which time 'tis reported no Grass grows in the place, though much all round about it.

Septemb. 18. The Personal Treaty began in the Isle of Wight between the King and Parliament, but to no purpose.

Decemb.

Micro-Chronicon.

Year of Christ.

- Decemb. 2.* The Army enter London. Decemb. 3. The King's Concessions voted (when too late) satisfactory by the Parliament. Decemb. 6. Divers Members of Parliament imprisoned and secluded by the Army, and the King's Person seiz'd on, and carried to Hurst Castle, and afterwards to Windsor. Decemb. 18. An Ordinance brought into the House, nominating divers persons to Try the King, but refused by the Lords. The Army still prosecute their wicked projects against the King, and the Lords vote, 1649 Jan. 9. That the King could not commit Treason against the Commonwealth. Yet a pretended thing called a [High Court of Justice] was proclaim'd. Jan. 17. The Commissioners appointed by the Regicides for Tryal of the King meet in the Painted Chamber. He desires Dr. Juxon to attend him. Jan. 20. The King was brought to Westminster-Hall, where Bradshaw with seventy of his Complices were set. He was brought also Jan. 22. and 23. before them; and Jan. 27. his Sacred Majesty was Sentenc'd to Death by that notorious Traytor Bradshaw afore said; and the 30th Day his Royal Majesty Charles I. was most barbarously murdered before White-Hall, hora 1. m. 12. P. M. at which time our late gracious King Charles II. of Blessed Memory began his Reign. March 9. Duke Hamilton, Earl of Holland, and Lord Capel murdered. 1650 May 21. Montross murdered in Scotland. Septemb. 3. A Great Fight at Dunbar. 1651 Jan. 1. King Charles II. Crowned at Schoon in Scotland. August 8. The Scotch Army enter England. Septemb. 3. The Great Fight at Worcester betwixt the English and Scottish Forces; wherein the Scots were totally routed, their Works taken, the Town enter'd and sack'd, about ten thousand taken Prisoners, and three thousand slain; his Sacred Majesty,

- with the Lord Wilmot, being pursued, gets into an hollow Oak next Day till Night, and from thence goes to a Ladies House, and by her assistance and others (in a disguised Habit and Hair cut) he escapes the rage of the Rebels, and shortly gets into France, to the great joy of all his Loyal Subjects.
- 1653 The Rump Parliament dissolv'd by the Army, and
- 1654 Septemb. 23. Cromwell summons a sham Parliament, which sate till Jan. 22. following, at which time he dissolved them.
- 1656 Jan. 26. Oliver Cromwell is proclaimed Lord Protector of England, Scotland and Ireland. But
- 1658 Died Septemb. 3. and the next Day Richard Cromwell was proclaimed, yet continued but till
- 1659 April 22. following: Then his Parliament was dissolved, and he turned out.
- Octob. 20. Letters from General Monk in Scotland, shewing his dislike of the proceedings in England.
- 1660 Feb. His matchless March from Scotland to London, where he acted his part with great courage and prudence.
- May 1. His Majesties most gracious Letters and Declaration to both Houses of Parliament, and to the Lord General Monk, also to the Lord Mayor, &c.
- May 8. His Majesty Proclaimed in London and Westminster, and afterwards throughout the whole Nation.
- May 25. He landed at Dover, and the 29th arriv'd at White-Hall, to the exceeding joy of the whole Kingdom.
- Octob. 13. Harrison (one of the Regicides) executed according to Law at Charing Cross. Octob. 15. Carew another, and the 16th Cook another, and mad Hugh Peters were all hang'd, drawn and quarter'd. The 17th Day Scot, Clement, Scroope, and Jones were executed in the same place, and in the same manner. The 19th Day, Aspel and Hacker only hang'd at Tyburn.

Jan.

1661 Jan. 30. The dead Carcasses of Cromwell, Ireton and Bradshaw drawn upon Sledges to Tybourn, and there hang'd till Sun-set; then taken down and beheaded; their Carcasses buried under the Gallows, and their Heads set upon Poles on the Top of Westminster-Hall.

April 23. Charles II. most magnificently Crowned at Westminster; and married to Donna Katherina Infanta of Portugal at Portsmouth, May 21. 1662. He lived and reigned with the love of his Subjects, till Feb. 6. 1684. at which time he expired, to the great grief of his truly Loyal Subjects. And the same Day his Royal Highness James Duke of York was Proclaimed James II. King of England, &c. whom God preserve.— There are many things remarkable in the Reign of King Charles II. which are fresh in most persons memory, and publickly in Print, which cannot well be inserted in this place; only two, which are very considerable, must not be omitted, viz.

1665 About the 25th of April, A Great Plague began in London, whereof died near 100000 persons. And 1666 Septem. 8, 4, 5. The sad and Lamentable Fire in the City of London, whereof were burnt to the Ground eighty-seven Parishes within the Walls, and much Building without.

1684 The Great Frost for about 13 Weeks began in Novemb. and ended the February following, with a kind of a Fair kept upon the Thames of London. And much about that time the Earl of Stafford Beheaded.

1685 April 23. King James II. and Queen Mary his Royal Consort were both magnificently Crown'd in Westminster-Abby. The same Year in May and June there was a Rebellion both in Scotland and England; The one carried on by the Earl of Argyle in Scotland, and the other by the Duke of Monmouth in the West of England. For which Treason they were both Beheaded.
